Placing wire on each leg of an amigurumi is used to provide support and stability. The wire is folded in half to form a "U" or hook, and then carefully inserted into the leg.

of the amigurumi. After inserting, place the padding only on the top of the leg, making sure the wire is at the base. This method helps maintain the desired shape and provides effective support for the amigurumi's legs.

When joining the legs, it is crucial to be meticulous, because each crochetter has their own style, even following the same pattern. In this round of binding, it is vital to identify the lateral that will go towards the center of each leg. Mark this point with a pin or temporary marker. If you need to adjust the start and end of this round, feel free to do so. This will ensure that your feet are not twisted later on.

Belt

Use Brown Mink yarn Start with 1 slip knot, 9ch, from the 2nd start BLO 8sc Cut the thread leaving it long for the connection to the waist.

With a millimeter thick tan thread and a wool needle, we will embroider the belt. We will use simple stitches until we form a square. For better understanding, please watch the video tutorial.

With the same thread, embroider the shoelaces, forming a total of 6 crosses, with an intermediate round between each cross.

Fingers

Use the same tangerine colored thread.
For both arms you will make the same pattern.
It will start on one side of the arm, whichever you prefer, between R3 and R4.
Start on one side with 3ch and 2ss, 1ss more to start the next finger, then repeat 4 times: 4ch, 3ss, 1ss
Secure and hide the strands

To join both arms, it is necessary to watch the video that we share. You probably have leftover wire that you will need to cut. Always make sure to place your thumbs in the correct position, just like our hands. After this, you will be able to articulate your amigurumi.
